Management With A Concentration

In Business Administration

The Management with a concentration in Business Administration option provides a broad business perspective for students who eventually wish to be involved in profit or goal management responsibilities. This program of study is not intended to prepare students for a career in any one type of industry or profession. Rather, it provides the graduate with a knowledge of managerial skills required by managers from small entrepreneurs to corporate presidents.

The Management with a concentration in Business Administration courses offered at WKU are normally taught by highly qualified faculty who write, teach, and offer service in the field of management. Most classes are small enough to permit a high level of student-faculty interaction. Courses required in the Management curriculum include: Organization & Management, Organizational Behavior, Business Strategy & Policy, related professional course in Managerial Accounting, Managerial Economics, Financial Management, Marketing, and other professional electives.

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES

A student majoring in Management with a concentration in Business Administration can expect to begin his or her career by seeking an entry-level position with some organization. Typically, such positions are quite competitive and only aggressive, well-prepared students are successful in obtaining employment. Entry-level positions are often coordinated with training programs. These are valuable sources of "on-the-job" education. The student with talent and drive will move progressively upward through a series of line and/or staff positions toward his or her ultimate level of achievement.
