

Campus and programs under the authority of the Kentucky Community and Technical College System, is projected to be completed in August of this year.

The Glasgow Campus Library was opened at the present site of the campus in 1990 with the help of a large donation from the Business and Professional Women's Club of Glasgow and serves as a general reference library with primary emphasis on serving undergraduate needs. The current collection includes standard reference sources, current reading materials such as local, regional and national newspapers, and a collection of general interest magazines. The library is equipped with state of the art electronic reference sources as well. Over the last ten years the Glasgow Campus Library has enjoyed support from local business and industry, including R.R. Donnelley, which operates a printing facility in Glasgow.

The new Glasgow Library under construction

"The generosity of R.R. Donnelley will permit our Glasgow Campus Library to greatly expand access to both academic and leisure periodicals," said Brian Coutts, head of WKU Library Public Services. "The R.R.

Donnelley gift will also allow us to offer a unique opportunity for students to have flexible connections to electronic databases through laptop computers, which is a service we are not yet able to provide to students on the main campus."

Dr. Mike Binder, Dean of the WKU Libraries and Kentucky Museum, said "We are grateful that R.R. Donnelley places such a high value on the WKU Glasgow Campus Library, and we look forward to providing students with a wide variety of resources in the R.R. Donnelley Periodical Collection when the new facility opens in August."

Marlin Harker, vice president and division director of R.R. Donnelley's Glasgow facility noted, "R.R. Donnelley is pleased to enhance our long partnership with Western Kentucky University by providing funds for the Glasgow Campus Library. The Regional Postsecondary Education Center will enhance the learning and development opportunities for our employees, their families and the entire Glasgow community. We are committed to giving back to the communities where our employees live and work."

R.R. Donnelley, headquartered in Chicago, is a leading printer, communications services and logistics company. Its Glasgow plant, established in 1970, has over 1,200 employees engaged in the production of special-interest magazines.

— Robbin Taylor

Curtis Sullivan, President & exhibit sponsor for Omni Custom Meats, Inc., visits with a guest at the opening of the "African American Folk Art in Kentucky" exhibit

Museum Features African American Folk Art

During January and February the traveling exhibit, African American Folk Art in Kentucky, provided visitors a first-ever look at the work of self-taught African-American artists in Kentucky, as seen through the work of ten artists with diverse backgrounds. Developed and produced by the Kentucky Folk Art Center in Morehead, the exhibit was sponsored by Omni Customs Meats, Inc. and Famous-Barr, a division of the May Department Stores Company.

On Monday, January 15, several hundred visitors attended the opening reception for the exhibit, one of many events throughout the Bowling Green area that celebrated the birthday of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.. In addition to viewing the exhibit and touring the rest of the museum, the museum invited younger visitors to participate in a children's art activity led by artist Joan Dance, whose work was included in the exhibit.

— Sandy Staebell

Whimsical carvings, paintings and clothing fascinated guests young and old at the opening of the African American Folk Art in Kentucky exhibit. The display was sponsored by Omni Custom Meats, Inc and Famous Barr.