I. Purpose and Scope

II. Policy

For a three-hour lecture course there must be a minimum of 37.5 hours of instruction excluding registration and final examination periods. This standard will be used to determine hours of instruction for courses with fewer or more than three hours.

Normally, there must be a minimum of one week of instruction per credit hour up to eight weeks. For terms of eight weeks or more the number of hours may exceed the number of weeks by one, e.g., nine hours of credit in eight weeks or twelve hours of credit in eleven weeks. Note: Graduate students may earn no more than fifteen credit hours in a regular semester.

Alternative delivery modes that allow for compression of educational experience may be allowed but must maintain standards of educational integrity. Alternative delivery of instruction must be reviewed and approved by the appropriate dean.
