This advanced Chinese Flagship course is designed to further deepen students' immersion into Mandarin Chinese by introducing to them the cultural background of the language. Taught entirely in Chinese, the course interweaves the learning in both Chinese language and Chinese culture by exploring the topics such as history, traditional philosophy, political thoughts, religion, arts and literature, medicine and science.

2. Rationale

- 2.1 Reason for offering this course on a temporary basis: This course is a continuation of CHNF 420, Contemporary China, that is offered in Fall 2011. Currently CHNF 420 is the only advance course in Chinese Flagship program. CHNF 430, Chinese Culture, is a needed addition to the Flagship curriculum. The hope is this course will move from temporary to permanent course next year. Chinese Flagship Program needs sustained course works at the advanced level; currently there is only one 400 level course, so this CHNF 430 is needed to build the curriculum.
- 2.2 Relationship of the proposed course to courses offered in other academic units: Although Chinese is also taught in the Modern Languages Department and they have a course titled Intro to Chinese Culture, that course is taught in English. The proposed course is taught entirely in Chinese and all Flagship courses are taught in accelerated rate. This course is distinctively a Flagship course.

3. Description of proposed course

- 3.1 Course content outline
Students learn about a broad variety aspects of traditional Chinese culture, including language, philosophical and political thoughts, religious beliefs, government institutions and artistic pursuits.
- 3.2 Tentative text(s) Han Tang Qi Xiang

4. Second offering of a temporary course (if applicable)

- 4.1 Reason for offering this course a second time on a temporary basis:

- 4.2 Term course was first offered:
4.3 Enrollment in first offering:

5. Term of Implementation: Spring 2012
