

Living Learning Community Application

HRL, 1906 College Heights Blvd. #11093, Bowling Green Ky 42101-1093

Living Learning Communities (LLCs) are unique living environments where students with similar interests and goals live and study together. You will be enrolled in either two or three courses, that you attend with the same small, core group of students. You will also live in the same residence hall as these students. These communities offer unique settings where academic success is supported in the residence hall. Community initiatives link classroom lectures with hall programming, peer tutoring, advising and referral services. Special opportunities are provided to interact with faculty members and university staff.
