The AY 2022-23 assessment used the five new SLOs that were created as part of a substantial curriculum revision to the Social Studies BA program. After a departmental review, it was determined that the old Social Studies curriculum included too many 100- and 200-level requirements at the expense of coursework at the 300 and 400 levels. The new Social Studies curriculum will take effect in Fall 2023. The new SLOs offer greater visibility into five elements of historical investigation that are critical for social studies majors: framing a research question (SLO 1), methods (SLO 2), sources (SLO 3), contextualization (SLO 4), and effective written communication (SLO 5). The artifacts were a random sampling of Senior Seminar capstone research papers (n=10), each approximately 20-25 pages long. These artifacts were assessed by a team of three full-time faculty, which used a 0-3 scale (0=unacceptable, 1=low pass, 2=pass, 3=high pass). The success targets were 75% achieving a 2 or higher.

The program did not meet any of the student learning targets for AY 2022-23. This result reinforces the department's conclusions about the old Social Studies curriculum and justifies the substantial revisions that we have implemented starting in Fall 2023.

Social Studies students take HIST 498: Senior Seminar alongside History majors, so the low scores of Social Studies students relative to the History BA suggest that the problem lies in the earlier stages of the major, which we have rectified with the curriculum revision.

Rubric for Student Learning Outcomes: Social Studies BA (592)

| Learning Outcomes   | High Pass (3)  | Pass (2)   | Low Pass (1)  | Unacceptable (0)  |
|---|--|--|---|---|
| 1. Frame an original research question.   | Clearly defined research thatdemonstrates awareness ofexisting historiography andrelevant primary sourcematerials.   | Sufficiently defined research thatdemonstrates awareness either ofexisting historiography or relevantprimary source materials.   | Loosely defined topic thatdemonstrates limited awarenesseither of existing historiographyor relevant primary sourcematerials.   | Poorly defined topic with noawareness of existinghistoriography and little to noawareness of relevant primarysource materials.  |
| 2. Investigate a historical question.   | Research demonstrates strongengagement withhistoriography and relevantprimary source materials.  | Research demonstrates engagementwith historiography and relevantprimary source materials.Historiographical discussion links to asmall number of works and does notdemonstrate a clear overview of field.         | Research demonstrates weakengagement with some relevantprimary source materials butlargely ignores secondary workson the topic.   | Research demonstrates limitedengagement with primarysource materials. Researchmight rely substantially on asingle secondary work.   |
| 3. Critically analyze evidence.   | The analysis of evidence isstrong. Analysisdemonstrates insightsspecific to the evidencepresented and advancesoverall argument.  | The analysis of evidence is solid.Analysis demonstrates understandingof specific evidence (i.e., content of adocument) but evidence is not alwaysused effectively to advance overallargument.                    | The analysis of evidence islargely flawed. Analysisdemonstrates some insights butalso misinterprets evidence orrelies on factual errors in applyinghistorical data. | Analysis is largely absent or deeply flawed.  |
| 4. Contextualizehistorical materials (ex.Events, ideas, historicaldocuments or objects,etc.). | Research placed in a broaderhistorical context. The use ofhistorical data demonstrates afirm grasp of historical factsand advances interpretationof the student's research.          | Research often placed in a broaderhistorical context. The use ofhistorical data is informative but notalways clearly related. Historical factsare not always explained or used toadvance the student's research. | Research rarely placed in abroader historical context. Theuse of historical data isinsufficient and is not used toadvance the student's research.                       | Historical context is largely absent.   |
| 5. Communicate ideasin writing effectively.   | Structure is evident,understandable, appropriate,and shaped around thesis.Excellent transitions andsolid topic sentences. Correctgrammar throughout andalways written with care. | Writing and structure is generallyclear but wanders occasionally. Essayincludes a few unclear transitionsand/or paragraphs without strong topicsentences. A few grammar errors butmostly written with care.      | Generally unclear, often wanders,or jumps around. Transitions arefew and/or weak. Manyparagraphs lack topic sentences.More grammar errors andsloppiness.            | Extremely unclear. Thesis isweak or non-existent. Little orno structure or organization.Transitions are confusing andunclear. Few or non-existenttopic sentences. Many grammarerrors and much sloppiness. |
