

International Year of South Africa Presents

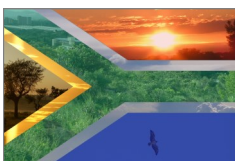

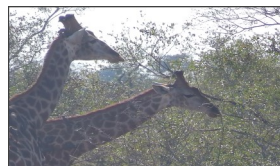

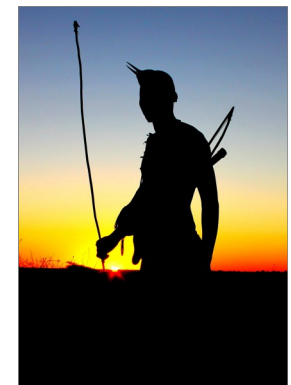

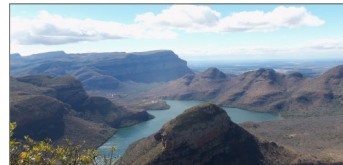

Lee Gutteridge: Culture & Conservation

Monday,
September 21st,
3:30 pm
Snell Hall 2113

South Africa is a highly biodiverse land often called the cradle of humanity. Conservation of the magnificent wildlife and rich habitats competes with human needs and progress. Lee will discuss the conflicts and complementary nature of landscape management and human development in the Land of Hope.

Two Study Abroad Programs in Biology will be offered in Summer 2016; See Drs. Bruce Schulte and Michael Stokes for details.

Sponsored by: the Department of Biology, Office of Study Abroad, and the Office of International Programs

