College of the Month — College of Education and Behavioral Sciences

The College of Education and Behavioral Sciences \(CEBS\) focuses on three major disciplines: teacher education, military leadership, and psychology.

Graduates of teacher education programs can expect to find jobs as teachers and school leaders, while psychology majors are prepared for jobs as psychologists, counselors, and therapists.

A major in military leadership prepares students to be culturally aware, well-rounded leaders. Graduates are eligible to receive a commission as a Second Lieutenant in the United States Army, though students are not required to seek commissions.

CEBS students will find the opportunity to participate in international learning experiences, programs to develop skills for succeeding in college coursework, and a commitment to nurture research efforts. These and many other initiatives are led by a dedicated faculty and staff in collaboration with numerous individuals throughout the larger university community.
