FOUR-DAY WORKSHOPS

$250 per student*

Registration fees include all meals, instructional materials and housing. It is suggested that participants bring a small amount of pocket money.

Workshoppers will be housed in a secured university residence hall monitored by our own counselors. Students will check into their assigned hall at 3 p.m. on Sunday afternoon and then go to the Mass Media & Technology Hall lobby for registration. All students are required to stay in their assigned residence hall.

E-mail confirmation of workshop registration along with workshop permission forms will be sent to BOTH E-mail addresses listed on the application form.

Each workshop capacity is limited to 18 participants. You will be notified and given a full refund if a workshop is canceled due to under enrollment.

No refunds will be given after June 6, 2011.

*Each workshop is limited to 5 participants from one school. If you wish for additional students to attend they will be placed on a waiting list and filled if spots are available after the deadline.

About the Sessions

Spend 4 days of hands-on training with the coordinator of the photojournalism program at WKU in the Photojournalism Workshop. Learn how to make great storytelling pictures for your high school paper or electronic publications. Workshoppers will need to bring their own DSLR camera and 4 GB memory card.

In the Cross-platform Workshop students will spend four days of training in enhanced storytelling. Technology hasn’t changed the need for a compelling story. Students will learn how to not only make sure the story is well written and properly sourced, but in addition they will gain hands-on experience using digital tools. They will learn new ways to tell a story, as the Web provides a distribution network unmatched by any conventional medium.

In the four-day Film Workshop, participants will work in teams to produce their own original short films. By scripting, casting, directing, shooting, editing and - ultimately - screening their projects, students will experience every facet of the independent cinema process.

2011 Workshop Staff

All workshops will be taught through a collaborative effort by the School of Journalism & Broadcasting faculty. More information about SB&J faculty can be found at: http://www.wku.edu/pcal/sjb-faculty-staff
