Western Kentucky University senior film students will showcase their thesis films at the Capitol Arts from 6-9 p.m. Saturday. Admission is free.
The evening's showcase includes the following films:

"At Large," directed by Max Fister, follows an amateur teenage criminal who commits robberies with an experienced conman while coming under investigation by the teen's father, a righteous police detective.

"Record Findings," directed by Nico Silverthorn, centers on a grieving young woman who discovers mysterious noises in a record from her deceased grandfather and must uncover the secrets of the crime.

"The Memories Between," directed by Alena Hines, tells the story of a sister and brother packing up their childhood home who are transported into their memories, where they must confront each other to get back to the present.

"Achromatic," directed by Kalea Alexander, follows Nashea as her boyfriend, Jack, crashes her family's Sunday dinner, forcing her to balance the conflict between her love for Jack and her father's expectation.

"The Salamander," directed by Nico Silverthorn, features a salamander in a frog-ruled pond who hides his sticky hands to compete in the Great Frog Hop and, when discouraged, wins his own way.

"Still Here," directed by Wyatt Mick, follows a monstrous version of a college student's past-self that forces him to accept his past or be trapped in his home forever.

"The N.I.R. Procedure," directed by Sean Roth, follows a young man who feels emasculated by his small body and opts into a dangerous experimental medical procedure that warps him in unexpected ways.

"Beyond Belief," directed by Eric Garcia, follows a group of UFO enthusiasts who find a real alien on one of their outings, interrupting a heartfelt confession between them and leading to distrust.
