Fall 2025 Term Course Guide

A Literary Club Experience: Demon Copperhead

Demon Copperhead, a Pulitzer Prize-winning novel by Barbara Kingsolver, is the focus of this class in the style of a literary club program. Jean Nehm will show how Kingsolver recast Charles Dickens' David Copperfield with contemporary characters wrestling with the opioid crisis in Appalachia. Included in the discussion will be Empire of Pain: The Secret History of the Sackler Dynasty. Participants are not required to read the books in order to join in the discussion of addiction and the power of literature to influence social issues.

- Jean Nehm
- Thursday, 9:00 – 10:30 a.m.
- Sept. 25(one session)
- Knicely Conference Center

Instructor Bio:

Jean Nehm is a retired WKU associate professor of English and a 31-year member of the Browning Club, one of the oldest literary clubs in Bowling Green.

The Pledge of Allegiance and the Creation of New Americans

When the Pledge of Allegiance was written in 1892, the United States faced a tidal wave of new immigrants; the New York City public schools had more immigrant children enrolled than native-born. The writers of the Pledge believed that a flag in every school would inspire love of country in all children and help immigrant students become "Americans." Today, once again 15% of our population were born in another country. How will we assimilate them?
