Title: Raising Law Enforcement Officer Awareness of Traumatic Brain Injury Signs: A Training Module

This mixed-methods research project seeks to initiate a proactive response to this need for officer training in TBI by developing a cross-disciplinary team of professionals with expertise in TBI, social/behavioral science, law enforcement, and military veteran affairs. The team of experts will collaborate to conduct a curriculum needs assessment to determine factors to be considered in creation of a training curriculum. The needs assessment will target participants who are providers of services to TBI clients, such as military/veterans services, community mental health centers, private practitioners, law enforcement agencies, medical professionals, and therapeutic organizations.

From the data gathered through the needs assessment, content analysis will determine themes to be included in creation of the training curriculum.
