STUDENT ENGAGEMENT ACTIVITIES

Add 2011-2017 Cardboard Nation.

In September 2010, members of Phi Alpha participated in the “Cardboard Nation” event in Elizabethtown, KY. Students spent the night in a cardboard box in order to raise community awareness regarding the need for an overnight shelter in Etown and the event raised over 13,000 dollars towards this cause.

In September 2009, members of Phi Alpha participated in the “Cardboard Nation” event in Elizabethtown, KY. Students spent the night in a cardboard box in order to raise community awareness regarding the need for an overnight shelter in Etown and the event raised over 12,000 dollars towards this cause.

In July, 2009, I attended the 16th International Symposium of the International Consortium for Social Development (ICSD) in Monterrey, Mexico. A graduate student (Lindsey Nave) co-presented a paper on violence against the homeless with us and this paper will be submitted for publication (with her as a co-author) in Fall 2009.

On September 5, 2008, members of Phi Alpha participated in the “Cardboard Nation” event in Elizabethtown, KY. Students spent the night in a cardboard box in order to raise community awareness regarding the need for an overnight shelter in Etown and the event raised over 8,000 dollars towards this cause. Phi Alpha was also an organizational sponsor for the event.

Phi Alpha participated in Cardboard Nation 2019-2014 as well.

During Spring Term 2008, I submitted two papers for presentation at the 2008 APM conference in Philadelphia with a graduate MSW student (Jeremiah Jaggers). Both were accepted and one has already been published in a peer reviewed social work journal.

I am currently (Spring 2008) assisting the director of a soup kitchen (Warm Blessings) in Elizabethtown, KY to conduct a needs assessment for a homeless shelter in that town (which has no overnight shelter). I am designing the needs assessment and including Etown BSW students in the process.

On October 18, 2008, I met with the CHHS Living Community to lead a discussion on the book “Wilderness and Razor Wire” at the invitation of the Associate Dean of the CHHS. We had a great critical and reflection on this book.

Hosted a special guest lecture (in my graduate cultural competency and homelessness courses) by Dr. Bryan Ford, Hartford Fellow, from the University of Alabama on September 16, 2006. Students had the opportunity to engage Dr. Ford on gerontological issues in working with social work clients.

Submitted the following manuscript to a professional journal with a graduate student (Jeremiah Jagers) as a co-author: May, J. D., Snyder, C., Gabbard, W. J., & Jagers, J. (2007). The social psychological continuum and its relationship to treatment and social reform: A mandate for just social work practice in the 21st Century (manuscript currently under review-Social Work & Society).

Supervised ten students from my SWRK 331 class in helping staff a luncheon held at the local Salvation Army homelessness shelter on November 16, 2006. Students worked a table providing hygiene supplies and psychoeducational information to homeless individuals in Bowling Green. This experience gave students a first hand look at the inside workings of a shelter and the opportunity to interact directly with some individuals experiencing homelessness.

On April 4, 2007, I sponsored and facilitated a panel discussion of the movie "Murderball" with students in my SWRK 331 class in Elizabethtown. Students viewed the film (which focuses on wheelchair rugby players) and then had the opportunity to discuss the film with one of the characters from the movie (who travelled in from GA) and WKU's Student Disability Services Director. The coach of a wheelchair rugby team also demonstrated the use of a wheelchair rugby chair to students.

Submitted the following manuscript to a professional journal with a graduate student (Jeremiah Jagers) in April 2007: Gabbard, W. J., Snyder, Lin, M., Chadha, J., May, J. D. & , Jagers, J. (2007). Methodological issues in enumerating homeless individuals: A case study (submitted to Journal of Social Distress and the Homeless). The paper has now been published by the journal.

Gabbard, W. J., Lin, M. B., & Jagers, J. (2007). Urban community based services in China: Tensions in the transitions. Paper presented at the 15th Annual International Consortium For Social Development Conference: Hong Kong, China, July 16-20, 2007.
